Just An Experiment

U.S. War Department Used Sea Water in Making Bread.

The United States War department announces that a formula has been developed for substituting sea water and salt in making bread.

Taking samples of sea water from the coasts of California, Texas, Florida and Washington, the chemists treated them to remove algae, bacteria and sand, and then treated with calcium hypochlorite to purify it. The technique used 62 parts of salt water instead of 62 parts of fresh water and two parts of soda.

The sea-water bread showed only a slight difference in texture and taste according to the standard recipe in texture, grain, flavor and crumb color.

WILLING TO OBLIGE

On board of the fast train of the Canadian National Railway, a lady was trying to get into an upper but the porter could not find the ladder. "Lady," he said, "I have been a porter for 10 years and I was the first time I've ever lost my ladder. I had it right here a minute ago."

An English sailor pulled the head out of an upper and said, "I'll lead you up there until you can see the ladder." He had the ladder in the berth with him—Wall Street Journal.
